228.1 Purpose

The purpose of this policy is to establish guidelines for the use of necessary force by members of the Town of Ramapo Police Department which is consistent with Article 35 of the New York State Penal Law and in accordance with NY Executive Law 840(4)(d)(3), Executive Law 837-t and 9 NYCRR 6058.

228.2 Policy

This policy is written in recognition of the value of human life and dignity without prejudice to anyone.

The federal and state standards by which use of force is measured are both founded in the basic premise of objective reasonableness. The amount of force that is used by the officers shall be the amount of force that is objectively reasonable under the perceived circumstances for the officer involved to effect an arrest, prevent an escape, or in defense of themselves or others. The standard of objective reasonableness, established by the United States Supreme Court in Graham v. Connor, is used in this policy and is intended to provide officers with guidelines for the use of force, including deadly physical force.

As the Supreme Court has recognized, this reasonableness inquiry embodies “allowance for the fact that police officers are often forced to make split-second judgments — in circumstances that are tense, uncertain, and rapidly evolving — about the amount of force that is necessary in a particular situation.”

228.3 Definitions

- A. Deadly Physical Force: Physical force which, under the circumstances in which it is used, is readily capable of causing death, or other serious physical injury.
- B. Objectively Reasonable – An objective standard used to judge an officer’s actions. Under this standard, a particular application of force must be judged through the perspective of a reasonable officer facing the same set of circumstances, without the benefit of 20/20 hindsight, and be based on the totality of the facts that are known to that officer at the time that the force was used.
- C. Physical Injury: Impairment of physical condition, or substantial pain.
- D. Serious Physical Injury: Physical injury which creates a substantial risk of death, or which causes death or serious and protracted disfigurement, protracted impairment of health, or protracted loss or impairment of the function of any bodily organ.

228.4 Use of Force

- A. In general terms, force is authorized to be used when reasonably believed to be necessary to effect a lawful arrest or detention, prevent the escape of a person from custody, or in defense of one’s self or another.
- B. Under the 4th Amendment, a police officer may use only such force as is “objectively reasonable” under the circumstances. The reasonableness of a particular use of force must be judged from the perspective of a reasonable officer on the scene.

228.5 Determining the Objective Reasonableness of Force

- A. When used, force should be only that which is objectively reasonable given the circumstances perceived by the officer at the time of the event.
- B. Factors that may be used in determining the reasonableness of force include, but are not limited to:
 1. The severity of the crime or circumstance;
 2. The level and immediacy of threat or resistance posed by the suspect;
 3. The potential for injury to citizens, officers, and suspects;
 4. The risk or attempt of the suspect to escape;
 5. The knowledge, training, and experience of the officer;
 6. Information available to the Officers from witnesses, complainants, dispatchers and other sources.
 7. Officer/subject considerations such as age, size, relative strength, skill level, injury or exhaustion, and the number of officers or subjects;
 8. Other environmental conditions or exigent circumstances.

228.6 Duty to Intervene

- A. Any officer present and observing another officer using force that he/she reasonably believes to be clearly beyond that which is objectively reasonable under the circumstances shall intercede to prevent the use of unreasonable force, if and when the officer has a realistic opportunity to prevent harm.
- B. An officer who observes another officer use force that exceeds the degree of force as described in subdivision A of this section should promptly report these observations to a supervisor.
